ing interest.

The Honolulu people have our fullest sympathy and if that knowledge will strengthen their hands any it as our duty to state it.

Honolulu is really the heart of Hawaii nei and its pulsations are felt throbbing here in the country. So what the residents of Honolulu will do we will endorse. Honolulu lives on the bone and ainew of the country and probably it is about right that it should bear the brunt of the battle, in a political sense. That the people of the Islands were well satisfied with the late Ministry is a fact. That the frequent changing of the Ministry is not position sense. That the people of the Islands were well satisfied with the late Ministry is a fact. That the frequent changing of the Ministry is not conducive to the stability of the government is another fact. That appointing an alien a "carpetbagger" to the chief or any position in the Cabinet is ill-advised, to use the mildest term, is another fact. But to have men for the Cabinet devaid of dignity, stability, energy, knowledge of the void of dignity, stability, energy, knowledge of the routine of their respective departments and a sense of duty to their homes is an outrage.

The ridiculous farce of a Legislature just ended had worked the country up almost to bursting and it merely required this last proceeding to split the could have done. The resolution was well, the ap-pointing a Committee to wait on His Majesty was good, but the mass meeting might have selected a Cabinet and the Committee have kinted to His Majesty that that Cabinet would be acceptable to the people.

History repeats itself, but this would not be comparable to the presentation of the Magna Charta to King John by his barons and yet the same cause is the occasion of it, viz: Absolutism.
That, however was absolutism of a hereditary monarch in the thirt-enth century, this, of an elected King in the enlightened nineteenth century. That Hawaii nei has no more patriotic citizens than we, who object to an absolute monarch, it is superfluous to assert.
That we have a right to assert our claims to protection to life, liberty and the acquiring of protection to life, liberty and the acquiring of protection to life, liberty and the acquiring of pro-perty we demand. If we allow encroachment on ear liberty in any form then indeed are we un-worthy the name of men. If we allow the ad-vances of China we injure our great ally America. If we quietly let events take their course will it not be courting China's advances? We must repel them at every point. m at every point. Therefore let us stand shoulder to shoulder and mand our rights. Wailuku, August 20th, 1880.

Psalm XII.

Help, Lonp; for the godly man ceaseth; for the subful fail from among the children of men. 2 They speak vanity every one with his neigh-our; with flattering lips and with a double heart do they speak.

3 The Loan shall cut off all flattering lips, and the tongue that speaketh proud things:

4 Who have said, With our tongue will we prevail; our lips are our own: who is lord over us?

5 For the oppression of the poor, for the sighing of the needy, now will I arise, saith the Loan; I will set him in safety from him that puffeth at him.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25, 1880. THE course of one, in particular, of the foreign nembers of the Legislature, during the last sea-would go along. AFTER the various public meetings held in the course of the last few days and the change in the Cabinet announced in deference to the universal opinion of the public, it cannot be denied that there remains still a general feeling of suspense and insecurity; but the worst feature of the whole commotion is an attempt to represent the crisis as a difference between the various nationalities which make up this community. We protest most emphatically against any endeavor to set race against race, Hawaiians against haoles or vice versa; the hopes and indeed the fears, the interests, political, social, and mer-ON WEDNESDAY, September 22nd, 1880, at 120 clock cantile of all are identical, and may be briefly noon, at the front entrance of Alliolani Hale will be summed up as being simply a desire on all sides 294 and 265, situated on the MAUKA side of Bere-tinia street, Kulsokahus Plains.

for a stable trustworthy government composed of men, who under a conscientious sovereign, are able to command the respect and confidence of the for a stable trustworthy government composed of men, who under a conscientious sovereign, are able to command the respect and confidence of the public. Again we say that the worst that can be done by enemies of Hawaii is to endeavor to set race against race when all independent thinkers are agreed that Hawaiian, American, British or German interests are inter-dependent and that to injure one is to injure all. It is incontestable, even already, that business is obstructed, property depreciated, security of person and property shaken by the entraordinary events of the last few days; a Ministry summarily dismissed in the face of a vote of confidence by the Legislature, and another installed in which public opinion has no sort of confidence, or for whom no one has any degree of respect, one official holding two posts (ed interim) and worst of all, an attempt to set Hawaiians and haoles in opposition one to the other, when indeed both know well that neither can flourish without the cordial co-operation of can flourish without the cordial co-operation of

to us last week, that "Now is the native hae of resolution sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought"; but there were not wanting those who declared in their own language that our moderate views of what should or should not be done about public affairs were not the views of the community. We confess that a good deal has occurred to arouse the feelings. The dismissal of the last Ministry was unnecessarily abrupt. The shock might have been avoided well enough. It is better to send for gentlemen who are holding such important commissions, and quietly inform them that, for reasons which should be named, their resignation was desired. There is no cause for dismissing Ministers in a way in which no one would think of dismissing a menial servant. The appointment of a mere lobbyist, who in his few months stay here had failed to secure the support of a single intelligent foreigner in the country, of course disturbed every one. The final make up seemed grotesque in its utter inappropriateness. As far as could be learned, no tried and experienced advisor was listened to. Respectful petitions, like that of last Wendesday, were treated as unworthy of notice, and attempts were made to denounce them as unconstitutional. Worse than all, the foolish and foolbardy appeal to race prejudice was made. It has been an occasion requiring the best judgment, the coolest reflective power. This community has expressed its views firmly as to the unfitness of the present Ministry, and with expression of views we feel assured that it will rest. Public opinion will sooner or later have its effect, as we have all along insisted, when expressed carefully and respectfully. The money question, if no other, always proves conclusive in the end. Money is not coming from China, for that nation is a borrower from foreign mations. Money which commands from 8 to 10 per cent, interest there will not seek investment one. The final make up seemed grotesque in its nations. Money which commands from 5 to 10 per cent, interest there will not seek investment here. England, Germany, Russia and the United States will see to it that this country does not come under Chinese influence. It will yet be found that the easiest and in fact the only way of carrying on the Government, is through the instrumentality of a Ministry which is converted by the whole a Ministry which is supported by the whole country. We regard the present condition of things as owing largely to misrepresentation and misunderstanding, and that all that is needed is time for quiet reflection, when we shall see a trustworthy Ministry.

A most extraordinary paper (in native and in English) was placed in the hands of every passer-by on last Saturday afternoon. We cannot con-gratulate the composer on either his matter or his manner. The document, if it may be so called, has neither rhyme nor reason, neither grammar nor English) was placed in the hands of every passerlogic, neither wit nor wisdom, but is a compilation, half commonplaces, half contradictions, which serve alternately to be wilder or amuse the reader. Passing over the bulk of the paper, which by cause of the most conspicuous absence of reason and grammar is almost unintelligible, we come to a comparison not only indecent but grossly profane, in which a certain individual, lately appointed to and removed from a conspicuous public position, is elegantly described as martyrized, and then this writer, whose object, as nearly as we can guess, seems to be the defence of the new Ministry, thinks to accomplish his object by calling the unfortunate colleagues of the martyrized central figure the MALEPACTORS. Let it be so; may be the name will stick, may be events will justify the phrase. This manifesto as a whole stands self condemned; but we must call attention to two or three phrases, as they show such an amazing ignorance of the first alphabet of constitutional government. First it is asserted that "The King's prerogative has been asserted that "The King's prerogative has been encronched upon." This is directly the opposite of the truth. It is the prerogative of a constitutional King to appoint Ministers whose principles of action are in accord with public opinion, and whose personal characters are such as to command the public confidence, and it is equally the prerogative of the people to demand that it be so. Next, this writer says in his arrogant ignorance, "The Constitution does not grant the SUBJECT a right to express his opinion of censure on His Majery The King. It is a right innate, inherent to, and inalienable from, every free man, and is clearly given by the Constitution. The long, long list of "Monarchs retired from business" in consequence of their subjects exercising their right of censure, might have taught the writer of the paper the folly of such an assertion as that which we have quoted. "In the scene that easies
I did not take a hand."

Mr. Entron.—Country people are noted for their voracious appetites as regards reading auterial.
We devour every item in your paper with absorbing interest.
The Honolulu people have our fullest sympathy and if that knowledge will strengthen their hands any it is our duty to state it.
Honolulu is really the heart of Hawaii nei and its pulsations are felt throbbing here in the country fee what the residents of Honolulu will do we will endone. Honolulu lives on the bone and show of the country and probably it is about right.

Wz suspect there was a touch of keen irony in Simon Kaai's remark at Knumakapili last Friday. that the King has the power to appoint his scullion as a Minister, if he likes to do so. This matter requires consideration. The Constitution makes certain qualifications necessary for any man to be a member of the Legislative Assembly. A noble must be at least twenty one years of age, and have been domiciled in the Kingdom at least five years. Art, 58. No one can be a representative " who is an idiot, or insane, nor unless he shall have been a male subject of the kingdom, who shall have ar-We do not think the mass meeting did all it rived at the full age of twenty-one years—who shall know how to read and write-who shall understand accounts—who shall have been domiciled in the kingdom for at least three years and shall own real estate within the kingdom of the clear value of at least tive hundred dollars, or who shall have an annual income of at least two hundred and fifty dollars." Art 61. No one shall ever hold any office of honor, trust or profit who has been convicted in due course of law of certain criminal offences, unless pardoned and restored to his civil rights. Art 73. "No officer of this government shall hold any office or receive any salary from any other government or power whatever." Art 74. These last two are manifest limitations upon the appointment of Catimet officers. It is hardly likely that any one in his senses would say that an infant or an idiot, or a well known, if unconvicted criminal would be Constitutionally clipible for a Minister, in view of the Article that the "Ministers are responsible." Art. 31. As to the right of the derstand accounts-who shall have been domiciled Minister, in view of the Article that the "Ministers are responsible." Art. 31. As to the right of the public to "assemble in an orderly and peaceable manner without arms, to consult for the common good, and to petition the King or Legislative Assembly for redress of grievances;" (Art. 5.) there can be no doubt. The Constitution declares that "the King conducts his government for the common good," (Art. 13), and that "each member of society has a right to be protected by it in the enjoyment of his life, liberty and property according to law," (Art. 14.) It is clear that this, with other Constitutional provisions concerning the liberty of speech and of the press gives the right that ing to law, (APL 14.) It is clear that this, with other Constitutional provisions concerning the liberty of speech and of the press, gives the right to consider and discuss whether the "common good" is subserved by having this or that person in the Ministry, or whether such and such persons in the Ministry would be "responsible" in the proper and legal meaning of the word. But surely no one can for a moment imagine that people have no right to express their views as to the character or fitness of any appointments which may be made.

Our of the worst dangers to which Sovere are liable, is the presence of a sort of mischies sation, but more probably by the possession of a fluent tongue and a keen power of insight as to the most assailable point in the Sovereign's character. The adroit Favorite promises power to the would-be absolute, wealth to the greedy, or pleasure to the sybarite Sovereign, and it has so happened that for a time, the Favorite, backed by his Master, has seemed as if about to succeed, but no surer Nemesis ever dogged the footsteps of wrong-doers than the fate which follows favorites and their Patrons. In English history Edward II. in the XIV Century, (not to go farther back), was deceived by his foreign favorites, deposed and murdered, while they ended their worthless career each in the hands of the executioner. Precisely the same fate befell Richard II. and his favorites. The Tudors were an imperious race who ruled their favorites, the Stuarts on the contrary were a feeble race who were ruled by theirs, and of them, two lost their crowns and one his head, a third passed a considerable portion of his time in crifle. So able a man and successful a King as William III. was brought to book by the House of Commons and obliged to recall some of the grants he he had made to his countrymen, notwithstanding the good services they had rendered to their adopted country. Poor Queen Anne was nearly dragged off her throne by the tussles of rival Favorites. The most recent case we need to quote was in the days of George III. of whose Favorite a historian wrote: that for a time, the Favorite, backed by his Mas-

wrote:

"There was no want of popular themes for invective against his character. He was a Favorite and Favorites have always been odions, * No mere Favorite had sever been at the hoad of the government, since the dagger of Felton had reached the heart of the Duke of Buckingham. After that event the most arbitrary and the most frivolons of the Stoarts had felt the necessity of confiding the direction of affairs to men who had given some proof of parliamentary or efficial thiers.

"These men did not own their eminence merely to the favor of the Sovereign, on the contrary they owed the favor of the Sovereign to their eminence. "Now however the personal regard of the King had at once raised a man who had seen nothing of public business, who had never opened his sips in Parliament, over the head of a crowd of eminent orators, financiers, diplomatiats.

"From a private gentleman, this fortunate minion had at once been turned into a Secretary of State. The val-gar rescried to a simple explanation of the phenomenon, and the coursest ribaidry against the Princess was scrawled on every wall and sung in every alley." There are only a few instances of the universally baneful effects of Royal friendship unworthily directed, to further the interests of men whose in-terests are not in harmony with those of the pub-lic. The unfitness for their posts of so many of the Ministers of State in France has been the principal occasion of the revolutions which have dis-turbed the State for near a century. Like causes produce like effects, and these lessons of history ought to be laid to heart.

NOTES.

The Japanese corvette Tsukuba arrived from San Francisco on the 18th inst., on her way home to Yokohama. The ship was formerly in H. B.M.'s Navy as the Malacca and visited this port some few years since. Both then and now we remark the cleanly orderly appearance of her crew and the well-disciplined, officer-like bearing of her staff and cadets. Such a vessel does credit to her flag, indeed might be worthly compared with the representatives of the older navies of the world.

Mr. W. T. Brigham lectured on Bodily Health to a very interested audience at the Lyceum last evening. If views like these could prevail here, there would be no cause for undue anxiety about any matters of politics, finance or religion. The purity of life and of thought which follows the practice of such doctrines is one of their finest and highest results. We shall publish a resume of the lecture next week.

About Thursday or Friday of last week a placard or two were posted of which the following is one; another was torn down by the police: WAY UP-CELSO CESAR MORENO!

Way Ur—Criso Crear Moreno!

The voice of the people is the voice of God.

To all true born citizens of the country greeting.
We have with us one Celso Cresur Moreno, a naturalized and true Hawaiian. His great desire is the advancement of this country in wealth, and the salvation of this people, by placing the leading positions of Government in the hands of the Hawaiians for administration. The great desire of Moreno is to cast down foreigners from official positions and to put true Hawaiians in their places, because to them belongs the country. They should hold the Government and not strangers. This has been the cause of the decrease of this people. Positions have been taken from Hawaii and given to strangers, and elevate to high positions the people to whom belongs vate to high positions the people to whom belongs the land that is the red-skins. This is the real reason of jealousy on the part of foreigners of this city, viz., that Hawaiians shall be placed above them in all things in this well-beloved country. C. C. Moreno is the heart from whence will issue life to the real Hawaiians.

[Communicated.] Lawyers fight according to law, and are, when out of the arena, notoriously courteons and for-giving towards those of the same profession: but these amiable characteristics have not influenced thoughtlessly congratulate him, the people may well be condoled with, in their humiliation. No country can afford to have in the high places of government those who cannot command respect either for knowledge, skill or character, and small nations whose power consists in their good name and wise management, should be very careful to retain the respect of their own people at least. All the profits are divided among them, and there are no stockholders to control the Company or to take any portion of its earplus. The Company long since attained and now holds the oremost place among the Life Institutions of the world. Its unprecedented success, since its organiza-tion to the present time, is attributable to its great care in selection of risks. Its great care in investment of funds, economy in expenses (less than those of any other Company) and its unpremiums lower and dividends higher in proportion than those of any other Company. The magnitude of its business proves that it enjoys the confidence of the people. It deals only in legitimate Life Insurance, and
